

AUTISM SOCIETY OF THE BLUEGRASS PRESENTS

“Supports for the newly diagnosed in early childhood and elementary years”

The Early Years

Autism Society of the Bluegrass

This Workshop:

Will provide specialized, information needed for problem-solving when working with a child with autism.

The diagnosis of autism spectrum disorders is stressful and overwhelming. Families and professionals need all the supports available as they begin to cope with the condition. Supports help with behavior management, visual learning, seeking medical services, sensory integration therapies and financial strategies through waiver programs to secure services. This workshop can be a great way to help you on this journey.

Date: April 16, 2016

Participants will:

1. Gain information on managing challenges.
2. Collaborate with professionals and families to design and develop visual tools that support language and behavior.
3. Review medical, sensory, music and other therapies that promote appropriate learning experiences.
4. Discuss issues around the Michelle P. Waiver and the services it can provide.

Who should attend?

All groups who engage with children with autism, family members, professionals, related service providers, educators, and caregivers can benefit from the presentations.
